DAIRY STOCK COMING FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

New England Breeder Expects to Make Exhibit at the Territorial Fair.

Herewith is presented a short letter which carefully considered may mean a great deal:

Frank Sanders, Breeder of Dutch Belted Cattle, Hampshire Swine, Lakenfelder Fowl.

Bristol, N. H., Oct. 15, 1910.

Dr. J. C. Norton, Territorial Veterinarian, Phoenix, Arizona:

Dear Sir—I am shipping ten cattle, dairy stock of various ages, for breeding, to Phoenix from Chicago; also four swine. Please send me written permit to go with the waybill as I want no delay on the road for I hope to get through for the fair at Phoenix from the dairy stock show. The cattle are tuberculin tested and the hogs are immunized against hog cholera. Certificates of test I can furnish as I have them in hand. Send permit at once to me care of the national dairy show, Coliseum, Chicago, Ill. Very truly,

FRANK R. SANDERS.

Dr. Norton knows nothing about Mr. Sanders save what is revealed by his letter head and letter, but a great many things are evident. One thing pleasing to those interested in this valley is that experienced and professional stock men in distant parts are beginning to hear about Arizona as a place to rear good livestock. Whether Mr. Sanders contemplates coming here to settle and run a dairy, or coming here to sell high class stock or merely to enter the lists for premiums, nobody here knows, but it is sufficient to know that he is coming and it is hoped that before many fair have passed there will be a whole procession of people engaged in work of a similar sort.

Another thing noticeable is that Mr. Sanders seems to be a modern and up-to-date stockman. He knows what the sanitary laws are and has taken the trouble to post himself as to what they are in Arizona. It is apparent also that he is a man who appreciates the value of safeguarding his stock. He does not get a health certificate merely to ship with but as he values his stock, so he cares for it before it gets sick. When it is well he wants to keep it so even if it costs a little. That does not apply merely to his high priced dairy stock but to his swine also. The average "hog rancher" takes a chance. When his hogs get the cholera he lets them die, but Mr. Sanders sees to it that his hogs cannot get the cholera.

Whether coming as a citizens, an exhibitor or a salesman, it is all the same to Arizona—he will be welcomed anyhow, for he is evidently of the sort of progressive stockmen the country needs in greater numbers.

And finally, if it will pay Mr. Sanders to travel clear across the continent to show a hog or a cow at the Arizona fair, what shall be said about the stockmen who live only from ten to a couple of hundred miles away and do not regard an exhibit as worth while unless they have stock they are assured in advance will clean up all the money? It is safe to wager that the possible dollars Mr. Sanders will get in premiums is the smallest consideration in this motives for making an exhibit.

WOOD SELLS INTEREST IN COLISEUM THEATRE

Popular Phoenix Vaudeville House

Is now Owned Entirely by

A. H. Reeves

A. H. Reeves is now sole proprietor of the Coliseum, having purchased the interest of his partner, George H. Wood. He will continue to conduct it along the same lines as have proven so successful in the past.

The Coliseum is reputed to be one of the best paying popular theatres in the southwest and Mr. Reeves has secured full control of a big money-maker. It was with extreme regret that Mr. Wood disposed of his interest, but he had determined to leave Phoenix and the theatre was something that he could not go away and leave in other hands. Therefore he decided to sell out and his partner, knowing the record of the house, made him the right kind of a proposition.

It has been almost two years since Mr. Reeves and Mr. Wood erected the Coliseum and opened it as a first-class vaudeville house. From the very beginning it was successful, due to the high class shows that were presented at ten and twenty cents. A standard was set and this standard has never been allowed to drop. "Coliseum" and "good vaudeville"—meaning vaudeville such as is usually seen only in the largest cities—have come to be synonymous in Phoenix.

Mr. Reeves is the original moving picture man in Phoenix. More than a year before he opened the Coliseum he established the old Electric theatre, on North First avenue. The program consisted of moving pictures and illustrated songs, and the venture was so successful that Mr. Reeves soon decided that the thing to do was to build an airdome, which could be roofed in winter, and there present both pictures and vaudeville. He formed a partnership with Mr. Wood and the two erected the Coliseum. It wasn't long before the house had to be enlarged, and they have kept on enlarging and improving at frequent intervals ever since. Mr. Wood has no immediate plans for the future. He may remain in Phoenix until next spring.
